Somto Obi Meet Somto Obi, the enthusiastic Community Engagement Coordinator at MARL. With a passion for fostering connections, Somto is dedicated to contributing positively to the MHSEB. Bringing a collaborative spirit to the table, she is excited to bring a fresh perspective to the MHSEB, ensuring a welcoming and lively atmosphere for everyone.

Melanie Beth Oliviero is a senior level strategist and educator with global and grassroots experience. She offers expertise working with community, private and public sector to advance strategic planning, organizational development, and advocacy efforts, especially those involving collaborative engagement and equity considerations of vulnerable groups.

Grace Wall is currently enrolled at the University of Manitoba, studying Genetics, with a minor in Social/Cultural Anthropology. Last year, Grace was co-captain of the Miles Macdonell team that won the Manitoba Provincial competition. She is looking forward to a career in Genetics, and is very interested in all of the ethical implications the profession carries.

Judges

Marcus Bellec (he/him/il) is a recent graduate of the Faculty of Education at l'Université de Saint-Boniface. He is passionate about decolonization, social equity, human rights, and, of course, some healthy discourse on ethical topics!

Dr. Samantha Brennan is a philosophy professor at the University of Guelph, where she is also Dean of Arts. Samantha's research is in the areas of normative and applied ethics, including feminist ethics. She has judged the Ontario Ethics Bowl and the regional ethics bowl at the University of Guelph held for the first time in 2024. Samantha is also a member of the Board of Ethics Bowl Canada.

Ed Braun has taught not only in High School and University settings, his classrooms have included Trap Lines and Northern Wilderness Camps, Community Halls, Church Basements and Rec Centres, Theatre Rehearsal Studios and Old Folks Homes, Vimy-Ridge Park on Portage Avenue and even the Human Rights Museum once or twice. Most of his first students were Metis and Ininiw Middle Years and High School students of Kisipakamak and Kinosao Sipi, Manitoba. His MEd degree allowed him to expand the scope of his teaching beyond school setting(s) into University and Adult Education Facilities.

Lia Braun is a retired educator who now works to raise awareness about Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorder.

Marianne Cerilli is a health teacher turned social innovator who envisions an ethical world of "enough for all forever" by investing in the social and ecological determinants of health. She has shape shifted from a sport, recreation and fitness champ to a high school guidance counsellor, to MLA, university contract faculty, community and political organizer, policy analyst, community advocate/mentor and college Community Development /Community Economic Development instructor. She most recently transformed into Marianne Cerilli – Change Agent spreading 'Community Development for Health, Sustainability, Peace' wherever she goes.

Alice (Bo) Coates is a graduate student and instructor at the University of Manitoba in the department of Linguistics. Her research foci are the social and educational benefits to heritage language learning in Indigenous communities in Canada, and She has conducted research with communities in the Northwest Territories in recent years. She works as a student support specialist with the University, and is passionate about equitable access to education. In the future, she is looking to develop resources for First Nations youth to be at the forefront of language revival.

Linda Connor Before joining the Department of Education, Linda taught Senior Years History and English for over 3 decades. In addition to co-authoring the grade 11 Canadian history textbook, Shaping Canada, Linda has contributed to the grade 7 social studies textbook, The World Today, and the grade 9 civics textbook, Canada in the Contemporary World. Linda enjoys working with school communities on initiatives such as the UNESCO Schools Network and co-edits the Manitoba Social Science Teachers Association education journal. Being part of the High School Ethics Bowl provides Linda with the opportunity to see Manitoba's Global Competencies in action!

Ken Friesen, who retired in 2017, was a teacher at Stony Mountain Institution for 25 years. He felt fortunate to be able to come home each night to his wife, Sandra, and their 3 children.

Liam Forrester holds a master's degree in political philosophy from the University of Manitoba where he works as a Duff Roblin research fellow. His work focuses on conspiracy theories and the far right. Outside of academic life, Liam holds a second-degree black belt in taekwondo and served as news editor for The Manitoban."

Dr. Nicolas Fillion is associate professor of philosophy at Simon Fraser University, specializing in logic, philosophy of science and mathematics, and ancient Greek philosophy. He has recently been awarded the Cormack Award for Excellence in teaching and a SSHRC Insight grant for his project "The third pillar of scientific rationality". He is currently serving as Chair of Ethics Bowl Canada and as President of the Canadian Society for the History and Philosophy of Mathematics.

Kristen Gall recently completed her Bachelor's Degree in Political Science at the University of Winnipeg. Her primary areas of study include counter-extremism and counter-terrorism, and she worked on the ERiM Project to counter radicalization in Manitoba schools. This is her first year being involved with the Ethics Bowl and she is thrilled to be here!

Dr. Carolyn Garland is the Awards and Communications Officer in the Faculty of Graduate Studies at The University of Winnipeg. She holds a PhD in Philosophy from Syracuse University, where she was a Humanities Center Dissertation Fellow. Carolyn's doctoral research was on the philosophy of grief and personhood. She continues to explore many of those themes through creative writing.

Sanja Hiebert Sawatzky likes spending time with her cat, Benny, baking, and going camping. Sanja graduated from the University of Manitoba with a B.A. in German and is pursuing a career in Human Resources.

Dr. Sandra Krahn, executive director of Manitoba Association for Rights and Liberties, has over 25 years of experience working in educational organizations, including schools, universities and non-profit organizations. She started her education career as a high school science teacher. She has been a project leader in a UNESCO Associated School, which included teacher training and the development of educational resources. Sandra has a Bachelor of education, with a Master's and Ph.D. in Peace and Conflict Studies. Her research specialization is in how educational initiatives can support community peacebuilding. Sandra has experience with teacher training for human rights education in Canada, India and the Czech Republic. Her experience includes grant writing, program development and writing curriculum for community organizations.

Linda Mlodzinski is an education consultant. She started her career in the Pembina Trails School Division, where she taught early, middle and senior years students.
